

GETTING BACK TO YOU

Finding Answers from Within

“When you work you are a flute through whose heart the whispering of the hours turns to music...and what is it to work with love? It is to weave the cloth with threads drawn from your heart, even as if your beloved were to wear that cloth.”

—Kahlil Gibran

As I look at the things going on in the world, I wonder: how can we be so upside down? What ultimately matters most is so simple—Love in all its forms, and in every aspect of our lives. In the words of Gibran, everything is about Love—even our work.

It took time, but I finally realized the issues I had around my work stemmed from what I believed it was supposed to be about. Answering the questions ahead made it easier to figure out.

DO YOU REALLY BELIEVE

Work is supposed to be painful?

Aside from making a living, what purpose does work serve in your life?

How important to you are these other purposes?

Do you believe work is a hardship in your life?

Did your family's work history have influence how you "do" work?

DO YOU REALLY BELIEVE

Work is supposed to be painful?

---

Do you believe that words like Love, Joy, and Peace should be part of the work you do?

Do you believe there is anything unique or special you can offer to the world?

Do you believe there are others in the world who are unique and have gifts to offer?

Do you believe your spirituality has anything to do with your work?
